"What impressed me during the design process for the medical office building was how seriously the doctors took the layout of the new facility from the perspective of their patients. No detail was too small for their consideration as they walked through how a patient would enter and use the facility every step of the way. We even mocked up exam rooms so we could be assured they offered the highest levels of privacy. There was true compassion for their patients' experience. It was really neat to see."

History:

- DJ Construction partnered at all three locations as Fairhaven outgrew their previous two facilities before moving to their present campus off of Plymouth Avenue (SR 119), west of Goshen.
- In 1989, DJ built an addition of 3,764 sq. ft. plus substantial renovations to their existing offices, then near Goshen Hospital.
- In 2003, DJ renovated an existing 10,736 sq. ft. building near Goshen Middle School into new office space for Fairhaven. The entire project was completed in three months and made available a total of 19 exam rooms as well as conference and nursing education rooms.
- DJ developed the current Fairhaven OB-Gyn campus and built two facilities on it in 2007. The new 13,491 sq. ft. medical office building holds 24 state-of-the-art patient rooms, with primary consideration being given to the privacy, comfort, and ease of patients' visits.
- The Goshen Birth Center, a 6,632 sq. ft. wood-framed building, was the first of its kind locally to provide a safe alternative for out-of-hospital births, as the rooms featured family space and birthing suites in a home-like environment.
