History:

- In 1991, DJ and what was known then as Camp Amigo began a long-term relationship with the groundbreaking for the Retreat Center that would contain 28 rooms and several meeting spaces.
- DJ returned in 1993 to build an activities center that includes a gymnasium and a balcony area for other games and activities.
- Amigo Centre is a retreat & recreation center for members of Indiana-Michigan Mennonite Conference congregations, their friends and the wider community.

"We were so thankful for the opportunity to work at Amigo Centre in the beautiful natural surroundings of the camp. I remember my first trip walking the site of Amigo Centre and being so captured by the beauty of nature and learning about Amigo's many opportunities for campers to experience the combining of this natural environment and spirituality in their programming."
