"We had a number of different projects going at the same time south of Goshen along US 33. I had asked Jim Yoder, one of our superintendents, to lead the Wal-Mart construction site. It was nothing against Wal-Mart, but Jim wasn't happy about leaving the project he was working on at that time because he was really enjoying it. Fortunately, we can laugh about that incident today."

DJ Construction

History:

- In 1989, DJ Construction built the first Wal-Mart store in the Goshen area, a 68,907 square foot retail facility on the south side of town.
- This project was one of DJ's first contracts that exceeded $1,000,000.
- After Wal-Mart relocated to the larger superstore, DJ helped renovate the building into a cinema arcade complex known as The Hollywood Connection. The facility is currently the home of Maple City Chapel.
- DJ also built a loading dock addition to the original Wal-Mart store in Warsaw.
